REPENTANCE AND FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 3:12-19; Luke 15:11-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Repent ye, and believe in the gospel.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Boy Who Was Sorry.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Boy Who Was Sorry.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Turning From Sin to God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Way to Forgiveness.

I. Jesus Is Lord and Christ (Acts 2:22-36).

In order to induce repentance and faith, Jesus must be presented as both Lord and Christ. The presentation of Jesus as even the unusual son of Joseph and Mary will not convict of sin. One reason for the vanishing sense of sin is the failure of ministers and Sunday School teachers to declare the Lordship and Messiahship of Jesus of Nazareth. Peter proved Jesus to be Lord and Christ by

1. The miracles which He wrought (Acts 2:22).

He performed before the very eyes of the people such mighty deeds as to demonstrate His Lordship.

2. His resurrection from the dead (Acts 2:24-32).

By His resurrection He was declared to be the Son of God with power (Rom. 1:4). His resurrection was attested to by many witnesses.

3. The outpouring of the Spirit (Acts 2:15-21).

Peter declared that the coming of the Spirit on Pentecost was the ful filment of Joel's prophecy.

II. Repent and Believe the Gospel (Acts 2:37-39).

Peter's gospel message convicted the Jews of their sins. When they cried out, he commanded them to repent and be baptized. The evidence of their faith in Christ was manifested in their conviction of sin, and their penitence was shown in their confession of Christ in baptism.

III. The Forgiving God (Luke 15: 11-24).

The center of things in this parable is not the prodigal son, nor his brother, but the "certain man who had two sons." This narrative is a most picturesque and dramatic portrayal of the history of man from his fall to his reconciliation with God.

1. The son's insubordination (v. 12)

He became tired of the restraints of home. His desire for freedom moved him willfully to choose to leave home—to throw off the constraint of his fa ther's rule. Sin is the desire to in dulge selfish purposes, free from the restraint of rightful authority.

At the request of the son, the fa ther "divided unto them his living." Man is a free being. God has commit ted unto man his own destiny.

2. The son's departure (v. 13).

Having made the fateful decision, he immediately sought the fulfilment of his cherished purpose. The son could not now endure the presence of his father, so he gathered all together and hastened away. When the sinner casts off allegiance to God, he takes all that he has with him.

3. The son's degeneration (vv. 13 14).

He had a good time while his money lasted, but the end came quickly From plenty in his father's house to destitution in a far country was a short journey.

4. The son's degradation (vv. 15, 16).

His money exhausted, he was driven to hire himself to a citizen to feed swine. It is ever so. Those who will not serve God are made slaves to the devil to do his bidding (Rom. 6:16). In his shame and disgrace he could not get necessary food.

5. The son's restoration (vv. 17-24)

(1) He came to himself (v. 17). Reflection made him conscious that though he had wronged his father and ruined himself, he was still his fa ther's son.

(2) His resolution (v. 18).

Memory's picture of his home, where even the hired servants had a super abundance, moved him to make a de cision to leave the far country and go home.

(3) His confession (vv. 18, 19).

He acknowledged that his sin was against heaven and his father, that he had forfeited his right to be called a son, and begged to be given a place as a hired servant.

(4) His action (v. 20).

Resolution does not avail unless ac companied with action. When the con fession is genuine, action will follow

(5) His reception by his father (vv. 20-24).

So anxious was he for him that he ran to meet him and fell upon his neck and kissed him.

Why Judge Thy Brother?

Why dost thou judge thy brother? or why dost thou set at nought thy brother? for we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ. For it is written, As I live, saith the Lord every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God.—Rom. 14:10, 11.

PAMPLIN

Ladies of Presbyterian church held a series of prayer services last week. Time was also given to Bible and Mission study.

The ladies of the Baptist church will hold their regular monthly Missionary meeting at the church home Wednesday. The newly elected officers are Mrs. T. N. Ranson President, Mrs E. E. McClenny Secretary, Miss Lucy Rice Treasurer.

Mr. Joseph Cobbs and Miss Grace Richardson were quietly married Sunday at 10 o'clock at Charlotte C. H., Rev. George Harris officiating. Immediately after the ceremony they left for an extended trip to Richmond, Washington and other places of interest. The bride is the lovely and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Richardson and the groom is well known in this county and has had a position with the State Highway Commission for a number of years. To these young people we extend our very best wishes.

Mrs. Lillie Moses spent week-end at Evergreen as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Sue Harvey.

Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Walker spent Monday in Lynchburg.

Mrs. James McDearmon spent Monday in Lynchburg shopping.

We regret that Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Southall are leaving Park Hotel.

Mrs. A. J. Neal, who has for a number of years made her home at Park Horel left last Friday for Bermingham, where her husband is engaged in business.

Mrs. L. N. Ligon entertained at 5 tables of Bridge on Tuesday. The guest list included Mr and Mrs. W. R. Brightwell, Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Call, Mrs. Miller, Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Lukin, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Harvey, Misses Kate Franklin, Wilsie Thornton, Elaine McDearmon, Mrs. James McDearmon, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Crute, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pugh and Miss Merle Davis.

John B. Cunningham died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lavelette Carson of Draper, Va. Mr. Cunningham spent most of his years near Darlington Heights Va. He was about 90 years old and was a fine christian character. He was buried at Spring Creek church Tuesday.

The Tenor of a Life

(By Rev. J. E. White)

While all pictures and pilgrims here we're agreed, it's a really beautiful but badly We can see without;
All thing's on the room from Adam's day, the hasty of ar-rector,
Records that sin—that misch y curse, has Of mankind's crowning evil and incorporating good.
How truly grateful we should be that here Where Christian homes and friends and is not hell—on to be steadfast;
And great grace or labor in his vineyard here below,
Where souls may find the Fountain whence Of Living Water flow.
The fields are white to harvest and there's much t al must be done
Ere the kingdom is delivered to the Where lives and abides Jesus Him, and crouch beneath His tone,
And the victory of Jesus shall be final and complete
Of Christ's army, I enlist and fight against the
Whose pomps is to deception for each human robe of right,
In prayer, and faith, and service too, my Forth-ol above, and for the right, and for humanity.

England Moves Five Meters in 300 Years

Paris.—That the distance between England and France has increased five meters during the last 300 years is one of the possible deductions from new longitude reckonings made public by the Paris observatory.

The longitude between Paris and Greenwich totem in the reign of Louis XIV in the Seventeenth century was 9 minutes 20 seconds and 66 hundredths of a second. The new measurements reveal a difference of two hundredths of a second, which reduced to linear measurement is five meters or about five yards and a half.

Scientists point out that the difference may be due to the greater accuracy of modern instruments. On the other hand, it may also be due to the generally accepted theory of the movements of the continents.

Another Myth Blasted

For years the bears of Kadiak Island have been a bugaboo that rivaled the child-stealing witches for terror. Recent explorations have been conducted in the islands and it is now stated that Kadiak bears are no worse than others.

FIGHT TO PUT SONS ON VACANT THRONE

Rival Widows Battle for Crown of Hungary.

Paris.—A bitter, undercover struggle is on between two branches of the Hapsburg family for the unoccupied throne of Hungary. Two widows head the rival factions. Each is scheming to place her son on the coveted throne. The two women are the former Princess Zita, widow of Emperor Charles, and the Archduchess Isabella, widow of Archduke Friedrich.

The sons in whom the two women have centered their ambitions are the sixteen-year-old Prince Otto, the crown prince, and his thirty-one-year-old cousin, the Archduke Albrecht.

The strife between the two women, their sons and their factional allies is just fine enough beneath the surface to keep out of the news.

News Always Broke.

Two months ago it almost broke into the headlines. November 20 was Prince Otto's sixteenth birthday. The "legitimists," champions of Otto's candidacy, had been chafing with impatience, and had decided that on that day they would take destiny in their hands and proclaim Otto king. They almost did it. But there were so many obstacles in the way that Otto's heads prevailed, and the birthday feast was reduced to the proportion of a quiet, intimate rejoicing.

True, Hungary, according to her constitution, is a kingdom without a king. True that Otto is the legitimate heir. True that monarchists are in control of the cabinet, that they have a majority in parliament, and that they command the army. Within the country there was little to prevent the legitimists from carrying out their project. But Europe intervened. It was the rub The peace treaty declares that no Hapsburg shall accede to the Hungarian throne, and Czechoslovakia, Poland, Rumania, and Yugo-Slavia are ready to go to war to see that no Hapsburg is crowned. Another obstacle is that Empress Zita, who is fiercely desirous of making her son a king, has no money with which to finance the preliminaries. In any case it was decided that the time for Otto is not yet "ripe."

A Hapsburg May Reign Again.

Give Austria time to merge herself with Germany. Hope that Czechoslovakia will continue in her mood of secession and in seceding will weaken Yugo-Slavia. Let Rumania flounder a while longer in the confusion of a newly created democracy. There was the time and the deep sea are the legitimists. If they enthrone Otto now, the cities will survey the throne him again within a month. If they do not enthrone him now, the rival faction of monarchists may proclaim Albrecht the favored candidate, and may edge Prince Otto out of the running.

Albrecht, too, has the Hapsburg bankroll. For his mother has plenty of money. She has saved almost all of her great pre-war fortune. His supporters believe that, though he is a Hapsburg, he is far enough removed from the direct line not to be absolutely tabooed. They believe that if he were made an elected king the allies, though they might dislike it, would not go to war to dethrone him.

Another cousin of Prince Otto has recently thrown consternation in both camps with a sensational declaration that, despite his titles, Albrecht is not a Hapsburg. He is, according to this statement, the illegitimate son of the Archduchess Isabella and a handsome Hungarian army officer to whom Albrecht bears a striking resemblance.

This charge is made by the Archduke Leopold, who challenges Albrecht to prove by a blood analysis that he is a genuine Hapsburg.

From these bare facts, divested of the tangle of intrigue which surrounds them, it is apparent to the most simpleish Imagination that the vacant throne of Hungary waits unenviably.

Modern Scales Changed Little From Old Ones

London.—There is little or no difference between the scales used today and those used in the days of ancient Egypt, judging by an exhibition in the Science museum, South Kensington, recently.

Illustrating the history of weighing as far back as is known, a steelyard used by the Roman butcher identical to the present-day "meat purveyor" was on show.

Modern scales of nickel and enamel, with multi-colored dials, on which the weight can be read in an instant, stood side by side with models showing that centuries ago Leonardo da Vinci designed a self-indicating machine on exactly the same principle.

Among the sets of standard weights was one row which had come down from pre-Norman days and which still is legal standard in the Channel Islands, although no longer used.

There were weights of glass and rock crystal and, in contrast with a Chinese balance of ivory which would slip into a vest pocket, were photographs of modern monster weights, weighing hundreds of tons.

"Sea Serpent" Caught

Noank, Conn.—A real sea serpent was hauled ashore near here in the form of a 7½-foot sea eel weighing 27 pounds. It fought 20 minutes and tore one net to shreds.

Worried Night after Night as health declined

"I SUFFERED frequently from nervous headaches, and I could not sleep well," says Mrs. Cora Dove, R.F.D. 2, Hickory Grove, S.C. "I was thin and pale. I was so tired I could scarcely walk. I tried several remedies which were suggested, but nothing seemed to help me. Night after night I worried because I could see I was going down-hill. I had my children to look after, and I was afraid of what would become of them if anything happened to me.

"I began to take Cardui on the recommendation of a friend. It wasn't long until I was beginning to pick up. My strength gradually began to return. I rested better at night and was less nervous. I took several bottles of Cardui, and when I had finished this I felt as if I was in fine health."

Lina Davis Carson

Just at dawn on Sunday, January 27th, the "Reaper whose name is Death" entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Carson and plucked a fair flower, their youngest daughter, Lina, to be transplanted in the Celestial Garden. Lina had been ill for several months and her death did not come as a shock to her loved ones. She had been a great sufferer, but had borne her agony with patience and christian fortitude. Surely the gates of heaven opened wide to admit her to the presence of the King!

Her life was very short—only twenty-four brief years—but it was filled with deeds of loving service. She had been since her childhood a member of Hebron Baptist church and she was a faithful, devoted and consistent worker, always doing her best for the Master.

This young lady always did her full duty in everything she undertook. She was a conscientious student, always excelling in her school work. She was also for a time, until her health failed, a very successful teacher in the schools of Appomattox county.

Too much cannot be said for this estimable young lady. Lina was a loving, dutiful daughter, a kind and gentle sister, a true and sincere friend, and most of all, a faithful, loyal christian.

Her remains were laid to rest in Hebron churchyard Monday afternoon in the presence of a host of friends and relatives. Rev. A. I. Caudle conducted the services. There were many beautiful tributes, attesting the regard in which she was held by her many friends.

Deceased is survived by two brothers—Eugene of V. P. I. and Carey Jr., and four sisters—Mesdames Robert Thornhill, David Cawthorn and Lyle Caldwell all of this county, and Mrs. T. L. Christian of Covington.

The members of the family have shown a remarkable spirit of resignation and submission to the Master's will, but we know their hearts are torn and bleeding. We extend to them our deepest sympathy, for we too have sustained a loss in her going but we realize that "He doeth all things well" and "Our times are in His hand."

May God bless and comfort them and may they realize that the same tender Hand that reached down so lovingly and took their loved one home, is still underneath them to give them strength and courage! What a treasure they have in Heaven!

'Far off she is, yet ever nigh,
We have her still and we rejoice;
We prosper, circled by her voice
We shall not lose her, tho we die."

A FRIEND.

Remember the Fertilizer

For the tobacco seed bed, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, pick a suitable spot in the woods and clear that. Well-drained friable soil is preferred, on a southern or eastern exposure. With the soil not too wet, burn it to kill weeds and insects. Then clean it off and spade or plow a few inches deep. Before seeding, work your fertilizer thoroughly into the soil. In sowing, the seed should be mixed with fertilizer or corn meal or sifted ashes, to give volume for even distribution —about two quarts for each tenspoonful of seed. A heaping teaspoon of seed will sow 25 square yards of seed bed and should furnish enough plants to set an acre.

In 1920 tobacco was grown in the United States than ever before or since.

In 1928 cigarettes yielded over $6.30 in every $10 collected by the internal revenue department on manufactured tobacco.

Queen or No Queen

Can you weigh smoke? Of course. Some old bird made a bet with the queen on it, away back yonder—and he won. Weighed a pipeful of tobacco, smoked it, weighed the
